publications have lately appearation United States defending wwitern United States defending the station of slavery upon grounds of Scripturd vencio. The Yankees is general my that the time for such discussions person. We agree with them in this other alwesty is inwist or unlawful is not question now. Whether Scripture and two are for it or against it is a matter of a indifference to inside and madmong great practical issue is, who shall be the test? The man who is abourd enough to the that the Yankees latend the permanancipation of the negro is fit for a connecipation of the negro is fit for a shit locket. It suits their purposes at the deceive the world with the present a philanthropic mission, and, force the stelen blacks into the ranks of the rmy, to mock them with the name of free-m. But, the subjugation of the South once complished, we should hear no more of ion. The slaves would be taken from present masters, it is true; not one are proprietor, great or small, would rmitted to own a single "chattel," animale or insulmate; not a negro would be tion of property; but property of no kind would be shollehed. It is not in the nature of the abolished. It is not in the nature of the abolished. It is not in the nature of the abolished. It is not in the nature of the abolished. It is not in the nature of the abolished. It is not in the nature of the abolished to abolish property. It is only a transfer to their own procession of the goods, lands, the community, and negroes of their Southern brothern that they design and fully intend to accomplish. They have not gone to all the expense and hard knocks of this war for the swelferstion of any monopolius, philan. the expense and hard knocks of this war for the gratification of any moonshine philan-thropy. They mean to reimburse them-selves for all their outlay to the last farthing. Any one who doubts that proposition may doubt that there are any such beings as Yan-

Who knows better than the Yankees that the moultion of slavery in the Southern Sistes wolli's destroy forever the cultivation of the great Southern staples, and with it all the commerce and wealth of "this glorious Union?" It needs no hooks on slavery to convince them of its lawfalness or Divine sanction. They care not whether it is lawful, or has the Divine sanction or any other senction. They simply understand that it pays, and anything that pays is their highest law and the only god that they worship.— The rulnous results of every attempt ever made under the sun to cultivate the earth capacially in hot countries, by free negro la-hos, is as familiar to their minds as it is to ours. They have no more idea of permit-ting the South to become a Jamaica or St. Domingo that we have. They will simply Domingo that we have. They will simply take the administration of the labor into their own humane and merciful hands. Of all the miserable victims of a Vankee conquest of the South none will be as miserale as the slaves. Of all the woes their race ever suffered none will equal the horore which will be piled mountain high upon their heads should they ever exchange Southon for Yankee masters. We have only to look at the cruelty of their ship captains to free white sailors, and at the marble hard-ness of heart which they have displayed in this war, to form a faint idea of the hell upon earth which awaits the negroes of the South should the Yankees once get them into their greedy and remorseless hands.

Amids the many deaths that have bereaved the homes of our afflicted country since the outbreak of this war, there is not one that has brought more profound grief to the broken family circle than the death of this estimable and beloved lady. Never has the writer of this known a family where the domestic affection were stronger, or the harmonics and joys that flow from them were more fully and perspicuously displayed. Father and Mother not only received the reverence and love of affectionate children, but rejoiced at beholding the reciprocal affection that they bore to each other. It was a circle of friendship, love, and cartily happiness as complete and beautiful as we are allowed to witness in this world of sin and strife. This fact gave point to the shaft and weight to the blow, that snatched away forever a loved one from this circle of love. May it not have been the purpose of this providence to teach us that there is no enduring scene of bliss here? Deeply has this stroke grieved the hearts of fond parents and sisters, and of her devoted and loving husband. But, like her they are full of faith, and by that divine principle may be able to say, "Thy will be done." Mrs. Chandler possessed by nature a good mind, which had received the best cultivation, and a heart naturally amiable, which had been enriched by the grace of God's spirit. At an early period she had professed Christ, and steadily adorned that profession. She lived and died among the "Disciples," whom she loved, and by whom she was estremed for the steadiness of her faith, the gentleness of her spirit, and the godly sincerity and hollness of her life. As a daughter, wife, and Christian, she was an example worthy of all praise. May the God of all love soothe the wounded hearts of her parents, sisters, and disconsolate husband!
